Carhartt Available for First Time in Uniform Rental

Carhartt Quality meets Cintas Service

Cincinnati, Oh. February 1, 2010– Cintas Corporation (Nasdaq:CTAS), North America’s largest uniform supplier, has partnered with Carhartt, a global manufacturer of premium workwear, to offer a line of Carhartt garments designed specifically for the uniform rental market.

“This is the first time Carhartt garments have been designed for the uniform rental industry, and we’re extremely excited about this opportunity,” says Chuck Helmes, Director of Garment Strategy at Cintas Corporation. “Carhartt has done an exceptional job of separating itself from the competition based on the quality of its products, and we look forward to combining that reputation with that of Cintas’ service standards. ”

In today’s competitive world, growth requires using every means possible to gain and keep customers. Carhartt Rental Workwear makes the positive impression that attracts customers and builds confidence in a company’s capabilities. They raise the perceived quality of products, people, services and workmanship which in turn increases productivity and profitability. And by providing Carhartt, the most respected name in workwear, employees look and feel great, further increasing morale and reducing turnover.

Businesses can now supply Carhartt clothing every day in a cost effective manner while enjoying the laundry, repair and replacement benefits that accompany a Cintas Rental Program.

“In many cases, uniforms are a major part of a company’s success,” said Steve Carter, Vice President of Corporate Sales for Carhartt. “Cintas uniform programs have helped businesses grow by promoting professional appearances while keeping employees safe and comfortable on the job.”

The new line of Carhartt Rental Workwear will include a long and short sleeve Work Shirt available in Blue and Sandstone, a Carpenter Jean, a 5-Pocket Work Jean and Canvas Dungaree Pants available in Navy and Carhartt Brown.
